NEXT ISSUE: ALL-NEW ACTION WITH THE AMAZING SPIDER-MAN™!

LEGO® CITY STUDIO

Do you love the LEGO® City Studio episodes online? Have you ever wondered how an episode is created? Well, read on for tips about becoming an animator and a few cool facts about the animation process!

Want to be an animator someday?
Here's how to get ready:

- Practice art as much as you can
- Make simple animations with flip books or stop-motion photography
- Learn how to tell a story

LEGO CITY STUDIO ANIMATION DEVELOPMENT PROCESS

Storyboard:

The first step is storyboards. These look similar to comics: a series of sketches that show the action that will happen in the animation. This is what a LEGO City Studio storyboard looks like.

Blocking:

Then the animators add movement and block in details to the images.

Final Animation:

After that, the sequence is animated!

HERE ARE SOME DIFFERENT TYPES OF ANIMATION YOU CAN SEE ON LEGO.COM:

SECRETS OF THE KEYSTONES!

Lord Vortech is too powerful for our super heroes to defeat. Fortunately, our multiversal heroes have a set of secret weapons on their side: the ultra-powerful Keystones. Used correctly, each of these five unique artifacts can grant a special ability to your in-game minifigures to help them solve puzzles, beat the toughest enemies, and save all of the worlds from the evil Lord Vortech!

Can you match each image below with the right Keystone power?

CHROMA

With the Chroma Keystone, you can change your heroes' color auras to match patterns and unlock special areas and objects.

SHIFT

Walls and hazards are no obstacle to your heroes getting to hard-to-reach areas with the Shift Keystone.

SCALE

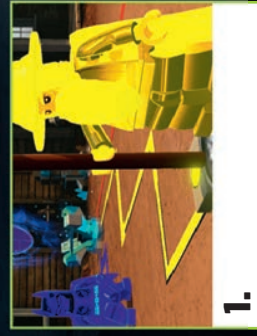

Use the Scale Keystone's power to grow into a giant or shrink to the size of a flea, allowing your heroes to creep through tiny tunnels and control extra-large machinery.

ELEMENTAL

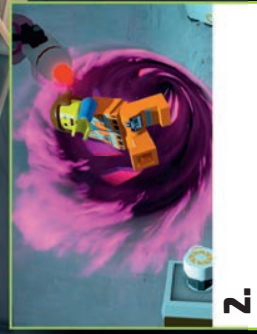

The Elemental Keystone supercharges your heroes with the primal forces of earth, ice, fire and lightning to overcome obstacles, pass traps, and power electric devices.

LOCATE

The Locate Keystone lets you track down invisible dimensional rifts and open them to summon (sometimes surprising) allies from other worlds.

A RACE IN TIME!

1970

2016

When constructing their newest endurance prototype, the Porsche 919 Hybrid, designers looked for inspiration from one of their most famous and successful machines, the Porsche 917K. This special car dominated endurance racing back in the early 1970s, and now you can answer the big question: which of Porsche's stunning long-distance racers, past and present, would win a head-to-head duel?

See if you can guess when these things happened or which car we're describing. Was it the 1970 917K, the 2016 919, or both? You can find the answers on page 15.

- 1 This Porsche wins all seven races it competes in during this year.
- 2 World population hits 7.3 billion.
- 3 The Porsche team adds a new tail piece in the Pits made of aluminium tape and transforms the car's performance.
- 4 Apollo 13 abandons its moon landing after an on-board explosion.
- 5 Porsche is the number one endurance team in the world with this car.
- 6 This car uses a Lithium-ion battery hybrid system that can store up to 6 MJ of energy per lap.
- 7 Paul McCartney leaves The Beatles.
- 8 This car is made of carbon fiber composites on a honeycomb aluminium core and weighs just 1852 lbs.

NICK RICKS
One of the creators behind LEGO® DIMENSIONS™

LOGAN "LOGIE" BENNET
Ace LEGO Club reporter

WITH LOGIE BENNET: LEGO® CLUB ACE REPORTER!

LEGO® Club member Logan "Logie" Bennet travels to the LEGO Group's offices in London and meets Nick Ricks, one of the creators behind LEGO DIMENSIONS™. Check out these highlights from Logie's in-depth interview. You can read the full piece online.

LOGIE: I had Emmet eating a Scooby-Snack in the Batmobile today. What's been your craziest combination?

NICK: I was in Metropolis, on top of Barad-dûr – Sauron's tower from the Lord of the Rings™ – and then I was Homer Simpson, in Benny's Spaceship and I was fighting Daleks™! I thought, "I haven't done THAT before!"

L: What inspired you to have dimensions as the main theme?

N: When I play with LEGO bricks, I don't have Batman™ on one side and THE LEGO MOVIE™ stuff on the other. You just mash it all up together, don't you? So, LEGO DIMENSIONS is playing with who you want, how you want, when you want and there are no rules! We came up with the idea of different dimensions, pulled together by a villain, but the inspiration is LEGO bricks.

L: Who is your favourite character and why?

N: The Doctor! My kids didn't know about Doctor Who, but I loved it when I was young and now I get to share all the really cool stories, characters and villains with them ... and all the other kids!

L: If you were a character, what would be your two attacks and special attribute?

N: If I wanted to just get the studs and gold bricks, I could use something like the Batarang which can do everything ... but to muck around and have fun, something like throwing custard pies! And flying is a really cool way of getting about. There's just something about running and taking off – woooooosh!

N: What about you?

L: I'd have ... I don't know! Maybe unlock all the red bricks to start! Stud magnets straight away ...

L: After you've completed the game, are there minigames or anything?

N: At the end of the game you see a special cosmic brick and a hand reaches for it ... keep your eyes open for a special cut scene that's the reward for finishing.

L: Does that lead to ...?

N: No! Too many secrets already! Can't say!

GIVE YOU AND YOUR FRIENDS A FRIGHT ON YOUR NEXT CAMPFIRE TRIP WITH THIS FUN CAMPFIRE STORY!

One dark and foggy night, six friends huddled around their campfire, whilst one set off to find firewood. Suddenly, they heard in the distance a chilling howl.

"It must be a wolf!" one cried.

"No, it's a bear!" said the other.

Suddenly, their friend ran out from behind the dark trees, still yelling loudly, hopping on one foot.

"What is it?" they asked. "Is it a monster?"

"No," he said, "I stepped on a LEGO brick!"

YAWN! I MUST BE DREAMING. COWS CAN'T JUMP THAT HIGH. CAN THEY?

They're back! And they're still awesome!
